TRAVEL Information

Brighton is located on the south coast of England, only 53 miles (85 kilometres) from London and in the very heart of the city is the Brighton Centre.

- Air - London Gatwick Airport is located approximately 28 miles (45 kilometers) from Brighton and can be reached in half an hour by either road or rail (a railway station is located inside the airport terminal).

London Heathrow Airport is 90 minutes drive from Brighton using the motorway, or just under two hours using underground train to London Victoria railway station, and then fast express train service to Brighton. Fast coach services also run from both airports to Brighton coach station; 5 minutes walk from the Brighton Centre.

- Rail - The Gatwick Express departs London Victoria to Gatwick every 15 minutes and the fastest connection onto Brighton takes just 28 minutes. There are frequent rail services into Brighton and the railway station is centrally located; 10 minutes walk from the Brighton Centre.

- Road - Major improvements to the M23/M25 link means that dual carriageways run continuously from the M25 London orbital motorway to within two miles of the heart of Brighton.
- Tunnel - European delegates now have the option of travelling on the Eurostar service to St Pancras International where there is a direct train service to Brighton. Cars can be brought over by using the Eurotunnel from Calais to Folkestone (channel crossing time only 35 minutes).
- Public Transport - Buses and taxis are plentiful throughout the city, 24 hrs a day. Buses run from all over the city and neighbouring towns regularly to the city centre where the Brighton Centre is located.

Car - It is recommended that delegates make use of public transport as parking options within Brighton are both very limited and consequently expensive.
